The long QT syndrome (LQTS) is an autosomal-dominant disease with incomplete penetrance and variable phenotypic expression. A mutation in the alpha-subunit of the cardiac potassium channel gene, KCNQ1, has been associated with the LQTS type 3 (LQT3). We evaluated LQT3 in our population. The KCNQ1 gene was sequenced in DNA from 35 unrelated subjects. The mRNA encoded by the KCNQ1 gene was analyzed by reverse transcription-polymerase chain reaction (RT-PCR). The presence of the 1659G-->A missense mutation was studied in 16 patients and compared with a group of 14 healthy control subjects. Eight of the 35 patients (23%) had the 1659G-->A mutation, whereas none of the 14 control subjects showed this mutation (p=0.005). The KCNQ1 mutation was absent in 4 of the 35 probands (11.4%). The 5' splice site located in intron 14 was mutated in the patient with a LQT3 phenotype. The 1659G-->A mutation was not detected in the plasma membrane but was located in the kinase domain of the alpha-subunit encoded by exon 18. Several others mutations have been described in this domain, all associated with LQT2/3, suggesting that this domain may be involved in channel inactivation. Although the 1659G-->A mutation was not detected in the control group, the presence of this mutation suggests that LQTS should be considered in our population.We now speak about the business of drones on par with kidnapping and murder. A drone massacre. The Russian government says that its military has shot down a US drone in its airspace, says Roskosmos state agency. That is literally in another league and should immediately be stricken from the record. If it is true, it will be the first time that a drone has been shot down. The Russian government has said, 648931e174

Now some of the data in the 3 tables doesn't exist for all rows in the temp table, so I want to use something like an outer join to handle this situation. Problem is I don't know what kind of join I'm going to have to use. What I know: The output of my query will
